Scarlet - Fever in a Policeman's

Dinwiddle-The Richmond, Petersburg and Cerelina Road. PETERSBURG, VA., November 5.

(Special.)-The recent marriage here of of the Fourth led his bride to the altar.

A STARTLING SALUTE. The bridal party of 1864 were compliand Petersburg railroad, and as the train them, the gunners opened fire, to the sur-prise of the engineer and the consterna-tion of the passengers. The engineer slowed his engine, in token of surrende to the enemy, but a signal from the of Federal gunners were pulling the lan-DEST JAPANESE AND CHINA SEAM-LESS MATTINGS.

He therefore moved on. The passengers were thrown into a state of great excitement. Many of them jumped from their ment. seats or crouched in alarm, believing that the shots they heard were from hor tile cannon, and it was sometime before they could be quieted and the situation explained by friends of the bridal party one of whom the artillerists had taken the precaution to have in each coach, to as sure the passengers that the firing was only a military salute to the bridal couple The incident having drawn attention to couple, they were warmly congratulated by the passengers. The groom of 1864 is a prominent and popular business-man of Petersburg, and tells the story of his bridal trip with great enjoyment On account of scarlet-fever in his famexcused from duty for some days, and his residence on Federal street has been quarantined. Two of his youngest chil-are not expected to live. Yesterday his eldest child, a bright and charming gir of 8 years, was taken ill, and though thought to be better last night, she died this morning. She passed away so quiet that death was hardly suspected by the grief-stricken parents.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT While Mr. W. L. Peebles, a well-know armer of Dinwiddie county, was driving our horses to a heavy drag in his field esterday afternoon, the animals became frightened, and ran away. They plunged into a ditch, and the best of the four rses was killed by breaking his neck, and another was so injured that he will erobably have to be killed.

Musings of a Spirit.

(By Request.) What means you sad and solemn throng That follows close the shrouded bier? The tender words, the parting look, E'en watered with the silent tear? Can that cold piece of slient clay, Which once entombed my 'pentant soul, Be but the object of their outward grief? Look! Here and there along the way Sweet flowers are strewn, whose scented

breath
Methinks would be more fitting incense
To the quick than dead. For virtue Dwells not in the bones of man,
But in the breast. Why chant the solemn ings from Various Lines-Sharp Decline in Wheat-Corn and Oats Lose-Provisions Lower.

NEW YORK, November 5.-The market was dull and sluggish throughout the short session, but with an undentably firm undertone, closing at best prices, with no disposition to take profits after the two-days' rise, such as might commonly be anticipated at the end of a week given over largely to professional trading. The market, in fact, resisted an attempt to reduce prices after the appearance of the bank statement, the attack centering on local securities, but the prices generally continued upward to the close. No effect was produced by the action of the Spanish peace commissioners in refusing the American proposition for the disposition of the Philippines. The speculative mind was almost prepared for a rupture of negotiations. The reassuring words uttered last night by the British Prime Minister, and the semiofficial statement from Paris, served to clear up apprehension of foreign complications.

The various weekly trade reports were, on the whole, encouraging as to the business outlook, and there were strong statements of railroad earnings from Oregon Short Line, Oregon Navigation, St. Louis and San Francisco, Flint and Pere Marquette, Louisville and Nashville, and other roads. other roads.

The demand for bonds continued very arge and well distributed. There were very heavy individual blocks of the Bai-

BANK STATEMENT INDICATIONS. The bank statement showed a rather unexpectedly large increase in cash, but the fact that credits have been extended $11.612.599 in the face of a decline of over $11.612.500 in the face of a decline of over $5.000,000 in surplus reserve is convincing evidence of the confidence felt in the money-market outlook. Since October 8th loans have expanded $42,465.000, while cash has increased only $14,349.600. As a consequence, the surplus reserve is but $279.450 higher than it was a month ago. A large proportion of the loan expansion, of course, represents money lent abroad. The recovery in stocks during the latter part of the week indicates that the selling part of the week indicates that the sellin part of the week indicates that the selling early in the week did not extend far out-side of professional limits and for short account. A dull and waiting market is almost sure to invite this class of pro-fessional operations.

The railroad bond market has shown greater activity and strength during the week, many issues selling at high-record prices. The reorganization issues, espe-

NEW YORK, November 5.—The week has been a quieter one than opening conditions seemed to indicate. There has been a firm market throughout the cotton-goods field, and there is talk of an advance in quotations, to be made by sellers. In print-cloths the market has been firm, but very quiet during the week. There have been sales of about 110,000 pieces, chiefly oud goods, and it is not probable that in the lines concerned in the pooling proposition there has been movement enough to offset the prediction. Nevertheless, trust is felt that they have the situation well in hand, and that buyers will be forced to purchase at existing quotations in the early future. Woollen goods have remained firm in nearly every grade.

NEW YORK, November 5.—Cotton market opened steady, with prices unchanged to one point higher, but soon became feverish and lower, under liquidation by tired local longs, started by estimates of another heavy movement to all points in the cotton belt and increased crop estimates. Bear enthusiasm, however, was conspicuous by its absence. In fat, several of the season's leading shorts were seen to be quietly taking profits. The few orders received from abroad were chiefly for the purchase of January and March contracts. New Orleans sold in a small way. A considerable portion of to-day's business consisted of trades for the evening up of old ventures by those parties fearing possible political changes CHARLES C. EDEY & SONS. Members N. Y.
